Travel support for people with disability

What is Accessible Travel?

Accessible Travel is a support offered by I'm With You that helps people with disability travel safely, comfortably, and confidently — whether it's a local trip, an interstate journey, or an international adventure. We believe that having a disability should never be a barrier to exploring the world.

What Can Accessible Travel Include?

- Planning and booking accessible transport, accommodation, and activities
- Travel support workers accompanying you on your journey
- Assistance with airports, train stations, and other transport hubs
- Managing medications, equipment, and personal care while travelling
- Coordinating with airlines and transport providers for accessibility needs
- Supporting travel for medical appointments, family visits, or holidays
- Group travel experiences with other participants

Is Accessible Travel Funded by the NDIS?

Travel support may be funded under several areas of your NDIS plan depending on the purpose of travel:

Core Supports	If travel is related to your daily activities or community participation, support worker time may be funded under Core.
Capacity Building	If travel is linked to building your independence or achieving a goal, it may be funded under Capacity Building.
Transport	Some participants have a specific Transport budget in their plan to assist with getting to appointments and activities.
